1 What's included

Unlimited graphic design for your church: sermon series, announcement graphics, social media, logos and branding, youth and kids ministry materials, and signage, mailers, and print. You get unlimited requests, unlimited revisions, same-day rush when needed (see Planning ahead and rush requests), and source files with every project. Every request goes to Emily directly, so you work with the same designer every time.

This subscription is strictly graphic design. It does not include video production or editing, or website design or coding. It also does not include weekly sermon notes or presentation slides, such as PowerPoint or ProPresenter scripture and sermon slides. Booklet-style projects are limited to four pages or fewer. For larger booklets, manuals, and annual reports, Emily can provide a few templates for your team to build from, but she is unable to design the full document with your content and text. These projects require a significant amount of time and fall outside the scope of the subscription.

2 How "unlimited" works

Unlimited means unlimited requests and revisions inside a single shared queue with one designer. Requests are handled in the order they arrive, and flagged rush work goes first. We keep working on each project together until you are happy with the finished result.

Unlimited does not promise unlimited simultaneous projects. If the number of projects requested grows beyond what one designer can realistically complete, such as a large number of projects at once, Emily reserves the right to limit your active projects to a reasonable amount. Emily will determine that amount based on the fee received and the time it takes one person to design the projects.

3 Planning ahead and rush requests

Standard turnaround for projects is one full week (seven days), and your team will strive to give at least one week of notice on projects. This is not always possible, and Emily understands that. Same-day rush requests are accommodated when possible. Flag the urgency and Emily will do her best, though a same-day turnaround cannot be guaranteed. If rush requests become a regular occurrence, Emily may talk with you about creating more room in turnaround times.

4 Sending requests

Send requests however works best for your team: email with the project title in the subject line, or a shared platform such as Basecamp. Requests can come from one point person or from several department heads, whichever your church prefers.

5 Term

This agreement is a fixed 12-month term. It begins on the start date above and ends 12 months later. It does not renew automatically. When the term ends, this agreement is complete, and your church is welcome to sign up for another year at that time. Pricing for a new term is set when you sign up.

6 Price and payment

The annual plan is $6,690, billed as one payment. To begin, visit createchurchmedia.com/subscribe and select the annual plan, which takes you directly to payment. This 12-month prepay saves $1,674 compared with the monthly plan of $697 per month.

7 No refunds

The annual fee is paid in full at the start of the term and is not refundable. This agreement cannot be canceled early by either party, except as described under failed payments and ending for cause. You are welcome to stop using Emily's services at any point, but no refund is issued for the remaining months. You keep full access to your subscription through the end of the 12-month term.

8 Failed payments and ending for cause

If a payment fails or is not received, all work pauses immediately and resumes once the payment is resolved. Emily may end this agreement for cause, including unresolved non-payment or a serious breach of this agreement. If Emily ends this agreement for cause, no refund is issued.

9 Your materials

Your church promises that it has the rights and permission to use every photo, logo, font, and piece of text it sends to Emily, and that using them in your designs does not violate anyone else's rights. Please confirm this before sending materials.

10 Proofreading and print

Your church should carefully proofread every design before it goes to print, including spelling, names, dates, times, and addresses. Once you approve a design, Emily is not responsible for errors in the printed result, including any reprinting costs.

11 File ownership

Everything designed for you belongs to you: final files, source files, and brand assets. If we ever part ways, you keep everything already delivered.

12 Fair use

This subscription is built around one designer working through one queue for a reasonable number of churches. If usage is clearly outside normal use for a single church's design needs, Emily may pause new requests or talk with you about a different arrangement.

13 General terms

This agreement is governed by the laws of the State of Indiana. It is the entire agreement between Church Create Media Group LLC and your church and replaces any earlier discussions about this subscription. Changes must be in writing and signed by both parties. If any part of this agreement cannot be enforced, the rest stays in effect. If either party does not enforce a term at some point, that does not waive the term. Electronic signatures and signed copies count as originals.
